

We urge you to allow Indiana and other states to adopt stricter standards for regulating telemarketers. The Indiana law has made such a difference in our peace of mind and quality of life. We no longer have to dread the constant phone intrusions, and particularly are grateful that my mother isn't being tricked into transactions she is not mentally sharp enough to resist. It would be a terrible mistake to pre-empt stronger state regulation and protection of their citizens' privacy.

Thank you, Sherry Clarke